Review of Standards Manual

The Committee continued its review of the manual, picking up with Chapter 4 – Poles. The Committee discussed adding information from NESC Rule 231 and 217 and AASHTO to the placement section (paragraph B). The Committee members agreed to develop an action item relating to definition of a “clear” zone—what is it, who decides it, etc.

Jerry Donovan and Corey Cook offered to locate and provide charts or graphics that will compare and contrast the capacity of cedar versus Douglas fir poles.

Todd Gover offered to research code standards with regard to guarding communication cables and armored cables and how the cables should be secured to the poles.

The Committee concluded its review at Section C of Chapter 5.

Staff was asked to provide a copy of the manual that includes all revisions to date at the September meeting.
